

Replenishment Program Agreement

Summary: LifeShare's Replenishment Program allows donors to give blood on behalf of someone who is using, has used, or will use blood products. Although the blood does not go directly to the beneficiary in the form a transfusion, it helps by offsetting some of the associated costs of blood products. Additionally, the program helps restore the community blood supply so products are available to local patients.

- A. For each whole blood donation, LifeShare will provide a $15 reimbursement towards the beneficiary patient's blood usage. For any automated donation, LifeShare will provide $30 towards the beneficiary patient's blood usage.
- B. In order for any payment to be processed, the beneficiary patient must provide an itemized copy of their bill from the hospital where they received blood. The bill must outline specific charges related to the blood supplier process fee. If additional transfusions are used after the statement is submitted to LifeShare, it is the patient's responsibility to provide updated itemized statements. Any donations made prior to the itemized bill being received and verified by LifeShare may not count towards the beneficiary patient.
- C. Before credits can be distributed, the beneficiary patient or the patient's designated representative must contact LifeShare and complete the necessary documents, including but not limited to: Patient Information Form, Replenishment Program Agreement, Photo Release, etc.
- D. To maximize participation in the community, LifeShare strongly encourages family and friends to host mobile blood drives in the community to benefit the specific patient.
- E. Because of the complexity in compiling and processing payments, LifeShare may elect to send reimbursement payments every 90 days.
- F. Because the privacy of our donors is of great importance, the names of replenishment donors and other details may not be released to the beneficiary patient or their representative.
- G. All reimbursement checks must be issued directly to the beneficiary patient. A check cannot be issued in the name of a family member. For example, a check cannot be written to the parent of minor blood recipient, even if the parent is the legal guardian.
- H. All unused credits expire after one year.
- I. Transfusions must take place at a U.S. hospital in order to qualify for replenishment credit.
